Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 28 Aug 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Most areas dry but mixed fortunes regarding sunshine amounts.

Today:
The odd shower may affect southeastern areas, particularly along coasts. The far north and northwest seeing much low cloud, some fog and drizzle. Elsewhere, variable cloud but some warm sunny spells, very warm in parts of Scotland and Northern Ireland.

Tonight:
Thicker cloud and drizzle in the far N and increasingly NE areas. An isolated shower possible for southeast England. Otherwise dry with some clear spells and a few fog patches.

Sunday:
Some northeastern areas seeing fairly cloudy skies and even a little drizzle in places. Elsewhere mostly dry, with some sunshine for most, probably sunniest and warmest in the west.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Remaining largely settled, if often cloudy and rather cool. Best of the sunshine for sheltered western areas, where warm at times. Some light showers likely for North Sea coasts.
